

Angels

On the highest dimension, you are part of the Creator, the Source, here on the third dimension; you are expressing yourself as a human being. This Universe that we live in, is made up of twelve dimensions and on the very highest dimension, there resides the Source of this universe, some call this the Creator or God. The Source radiates light like a mighty sun, radiating its light into the darkness. The light rays from the Source, are very bright and far- reaching. These rays of light are like lines of energy that begin to cross over each other to create a grid. The Source hangs its dreams upon this grid and begins to weave the carpet of creation. In every corner of this grid is an angle or angel, a being who holds both the warp and the weft of the carpet of creation. The Angelic being's purpose is to hold the two polarities in perfect balance, providing the Creator with the means to manifest the universe and all it contains.

This grid has many levels from the highest dimensions next to the light of the Source, all the way down to those, which are the very lowest level and still are very much in the dark. There are many levels of Angels from the Seraphim and Thrones in the upper realms, to the lower Angels and Cherubs, who are responsible for looking after the lower dimensions of the Earth. The Seraphim are next to the light of the Source and act on the guidance of the Source, as its servants and messengers.

Everyone has his or her own guardian angel. Most people are unaware of them, as they guide and support their human counterpart. Every soul here on the planet has an angelic counterpart, which helps them (if they so request it), to make contact with their Soul and the Source. Without our angelic counterpart radiating the light of the source at us, we would lose all memory of the Creator and we would fall further into the darkness of the lower dimensions.

In the Angelic realm, there is a hierarchy, different frequency levels of Angelic beings. The Seraphim are very high up this hierarchic ladder. The Seraphim are responsible for holding the energy of fire. The Seraphim are the Angels of the element fire. Fire is the flash of illumination that comes with enlightenment, the passion that instigates and inspires and the destructive power of truth, as with the lightening bolt. The Source sends it Angels of truth and illumination only on special occasions, when there is the need for the fiery passion of enlightenment. It is rare that the Seraphim are sent down into the lower dimensions to do service, as their energy is often too powerful and over whelming. The Seraphim are the closest Angels to the Source, the Creator, and God. They serve God, and they also serve us on Earth. They sometimes bring their light and intelligence to the Earth, so that we on Earth have the opportunity to recognize our selves as part of Godhead. This has not been done too many times before, but there have been experiences of Angels coming to Earth, these have been recorded in many religious books and texts.

Gaia, the consciousness of the planet sent out a request, that the Seraphim should come once again to the Earth. However this time they were to find a way to come into the human experience fully, grounding their Angelic selves here in the third dimension. This is what is happening this time; you are integrating your multi dimensional self here in your physical human body. The Angelic self is always the first aspect to be integrated, this is because in our human minds we are more open to our Angelic self, more than any other aspect.

Ranks of Angels were in communion with each other, as this occurred they formed to create a wonderful living organism, in which all the Angels were members of a spiritual community. Although they differed in kind and perfection, they were all part of a terrestrial body. They had different shapes and functions, yet all together constituted an organic whole, in which no part was superfluous and none was independent of the others. These Beings of creation formed a spiritual body of which the Source was the head; the other parts were composed of the other Angels. Every Angel had its allotted task, great or small, but together they all formed one great and glorious unit.

There are three spheres of Angels. A Sphere is a dimensional realm, which vibrates at a certain level, the highest sphere in vibration; it is the home to the Seraphim. They spend their existence, singing the music of the spheres. As they sing out their vibration, their frequency, they regulate the movements of the heavens. As Seraphim, their job is to send out energy from their radiant bodies and create a force field of energy, which would keep the spheres of reality and dimension moving in balance and harmony. Angels are in service and hold the rest of the universe in energetic patterning that allows various systems to evolve. The Angels known as the Principles move in powers of four. They hold the Four Corners of the universe and all its dimensions.

The Seraphim are referred to in the bible. The Seraphim are a level of angelic consciousness that is very high up the hierarchical ladder. They operate on what is called the silver and blue rays. The silver ray is the pure God information directly from the source and the blue ray is one of wisdom and truth. The Seraphim hold these energies for the universe, holding a pattern where beings aligned to these frequencies can experience different realities. The Seraphim are responsible for holding the angles of the universe in place. You can gain great power and harmony from working directly with your Angelic self on this level. Your Angel's name is very important key to you; in the process of awakening you are on a very critical point in your development. If you awaken to your Angelic nature you will begin an integration journey through your soul. This will bring your wholeness to Earth and you will complete your mission. Ask your Angel to come to you in one form or another, whether that is in dream or conscious state. Ask it to give you a sign of its presence and watch. By calling this name you will anchor the Angelic vibration in your body. This will be the first step along a very exciting and challenging journey through your soul.

Everyone on this planet has an Angelic counterpart. Some call it the guardian angel. On the higher dimensional levels, this guardian angel is you. The Angels exist in a hierarchical system. Each angel has a focus or purpose for being. The Solar Angels live in the energy of the sun. They focus their energy and their light through the suns in the universe. If you could look upon their forms on this level, you would perceive a shimmering ball of golden light, very like the rays of the sun. This ball of light is part of a bigger group of Angelic beings. Together they hold in focus the energy of the sun. All life on this planet is nurtured and sustained by the light of the sun. On an ethereal level the Solar Angels nurture the whole solar system with their love and light. They are very magnificent beings, and have been healing and supporting whole planets in their growth and evolution. They also hold the records of time. Every planet in this solar system is kept in its cycle and rhythm by the energy of the Solar Angels. Every movement and cycle that manifests itself in this solar system has been under the influence of the Solar Angels.

Sit down and make the intention to work with this solar energy and then breathe it into the body. Keep filling your body with their light. At first you will not notice anything as the energy is very high and your physical body takes a little while to adjust its frequency to allow the grounding of this energy into your body. After some time you will feel this energy getting stronger and stronger. Make some effort and you will be able to align with this energy, get guidance and information from this being. As our planet moves more and more into the fifth dimension, the bodies of people will need the supporting energy of the Solar Angels.
